

Coffee table covers

Is there any better feeling than ticking off your to-do list, grabbing a glass of wine and sitting back with a gorgeous book? The coffee table is where your books with the eye-catching covers, intriguing stories and styling tips are on display, so grab a read, sit back and relax.

Luxe Vintage
Tahn Scoon

If you've ever wondered how to successfully incorporate vintage pieces into the home, Luxe Vintage is for you. Magazine stylist and interior decorator, Tahn Scoon shares her insider tips on how to source and revitalise your vintage finds, and how to style them into the home to achieve clean, relaxed, French-inspired interiors. Projects include how to make simple soft furnishings such as cushions and curtains, 'age' metal furniture and advice on choosing and using wallpaper. You'll also find tips on how to style and host a vintage-inspired afternoon tea and create a kitchen garden. Luxe Vintage will show you how to design beautifully inspiring interiors—and live more simply and naturally in your home.

New Holland Publishers
RRP $29.99

Coastal Homes of the World
Monique Butterworth

Coastal Homes of the World is a collection of the world's most stunning waterfront properties. Whether it's award-winning architecture, lavish interiors or more simply the spectacular views, the collection of homes will inspire the reader to create their own 'coastal' abode, in their own personal style. This international collection covers waterfront homes from Australia, Asia and New Zealand, to marvelous villas in the Caribbean, Mexico and Spain, all the way to the luxurious properties by the USA shore and dream homes in France and Greece. Each location comes with a signature dish or recipe typical of the region to immerse you in the culture that surrounds these architecture masterpieces. This title is an ideal coffee table book for the luxurious vacationer or dreamer.

New Holland Publishers
RRP $49.99

Slow Ageing Guide to Skin Rejuvenation
Katie Mann & Paul Mehta
Christopher Thomas with Dr John Flynn

Bringing together years of experience and scientific research in diet, nutrition, and overall well-being, the authors show women that cosmetic medicine is about more than just feeding into a culture obsessed with perpetual youth. The book presents a best practice approach, showing readers how to achieve greater skin health by eating well and exercising, as well as skin rejuvenation technologies that best support ageing skin. Starting with what happens to the skin as it ages, the book also covers the environmental impact on skin ageing, diet and lifestyle, hormones and skin care through to more intensive treatment options that rejuvenate the skin and restore its healthy function. Every treatment is connected to the relevant science that demonstrates its value and lasting effects on your skin.

Health Inform
RRP $34.99

True Stories from the Morgue
John Merrick

Forensic Counsellor John Merrick spent 20 years in what he describes as a 'very unusual environment' – the Institute of Forensic Medicine at the Office of the State Coroner in Glebe, Sydney – more commonly known as the 'city morgue.' What's it like to work in a morgue? This book describes, first hand, coping with mutilated or decomposed bodies and the carnage of large-scale disasters like the Bali bombings. Equally as traumatic, the suicides, accidental drownings, car accidents and murders. But forensic counselors do much more, witnessing autopsies, attending crime scenes and coronial enquiries. It's all in a day's work!

New Holland Publishers
RRP $29.99

Fur-Ever Loved
Ken Drake

It's the feel good furry book which captures the beautiful sentiments of owners towards their beloved canine companions during their most precious moments. A beautiful testament to the power of love we have for our best friend—the dog. The book features a compilation of heartfelt letters written to furry family members from the humans who love them the most. Each letter is brought to life by the stunning photography portraiture of Zoo Studio's multi award-winning animal photographer, Ken Drake. He has been recognised for his beautiful animal portraits all over the world. Fur-Ever Loved will make its readers want to laugh and cry and hold their own pets close. A portion of the sales of Fur-Ever Loved will be donated to animal welfare charities via the Zoo Studio Foundation.

New Holland Publishers
RRP $29.99

